"BABIES FIRST"

That's the slogan tomorrow in the Babywear Section.

It's kind of queer, isn't it, how we always like to finger baby clothes? And how one has a yearning to fondle a chubby youngster when he's just been cleaned up?

We know that Mother likes to buy new dresses for the Baby, so we have made special prices on some of our lines. We think the quality is pretty good, and the prices are quite moderate.

For 50c there are long and short dresses, made from sheer, fine nainsook. Some have yokes of pretty embroideries, others are tucked or shirred. All are edged with fine Val lace and beading.

The New Marabou Neck Pieces

A Corsage Bouquet Gives a

Fasten Most Unusually These neck pieces have a cunning little head on one end, one presses a little contrivance-Presto! The mouth opens, and one can fasten it on the other end.

They come in white, dawn pink, taupe, black and sky blue, 32 inches long. Priced at $3.50.

A better quality of long and short dresses for 75c, 85c and $1.00. Fashioned from fine nainsook, with yokes of fine tucks and lace.

For $1.25 there is a choice selection of colored dresses, in sizes from 2 to 6

The youngsters will like our comfortable, Easily-Donned Rompers.

They are made from good stout gingham that will stand lots of knocks.

They come in colors that won't show the soil easily.

Included with them are little Oliver Twist suits, and the prices range from 50c to $2.50.

Charming Touch of Color

Anotherwise colorless costume may be brightened up with one of these corsage bouquets. There is a choice of Amrican Bauties, Baby Roses and a transparent poppy effect. These last come in gold, silver, old gold, steel and Peace Gray. Priced from $1.50 to $3.00.

life because the president refused to use a Rooseveltian big stick on con gress, President Wilson favors the Garrison continental army, as he made plain in addresses in Cleveland and elsewhere, but he refuses to stake the whole national defense move on the success of that one feature. He refuses even to attempt to club congress nto acquiescence.

With the president the question i one of getting the best plan adopted. From the first he has made it clear that he was bound to no particular ievice for increasing national military efficiency; what he seeks is results By common counsel, to use his own expression, he is trying to work out with congress the plan that shall be best under all the circumstances, One would expect under these con ditions that every member of the cabinet would subordinate his own will to the composite will of the adminis tration, co-operating with his chief and his associates to secure the result that lies near to the heart of each. Evidently, Secretary Garrison did not take this view. On the contrary, he formulated a policy which he came He could not brook the president's al to make supp inental army and compulsory military service the Keystone in the arch of national defense.

The continental army suggestion, with its accompanying thought of compulsory military service, whatever make timely provision for backing up its abstract merits, has proved unpopular. It appears to be politically impossible, whether it is wise from a military standpoint or not. The retiring secretary has done the country a service in helping to arouse it to a sense of its military necessities, too long neglected. He has had in mind the image of an America protected from the peril of foreign insult or aggression. One may only wish that he did not see fit to crown this service by accepting the facts in the case, subordinating his own ideas to the ideas of the majority and lending his continuing effort to secure an ade quate national defense.

The war portfolio will be promptly filled. The fight for preparedness will go on. Neither the administration nor its program have been weakened by Mr. Garrison's withdrawal.-Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE PROSPEROUS RAILROADS

The bureau of rallway economics has just published some rather startling figures. They show that in November, 1915, the net operating in-come of American railroads—that is, the income left after all taxes operating expenses are paid—was 84.9 per cent greater than for the same month in 1914, and 45.8 per cent greater than the average November income for the last five years.

If any such record had been achieved while T. Roosevelt occupied the white house the wires would be hot with explanations of how the policies of the peripatetic president had produced this wonderful prosperity, and railroad magnates would have nodded nodded indorsement—with their tongues in their cheeks. But the good times have come under a democratic regime, wherefore rallway managers, too subservient to tariff interests, keep as quiet about the matter as they can, talk about the "exactions of labor," and view the future with 'grave alarm." Perhaps they fear that the rush of business will wear out the roadbed. Incidentally, it is worth noting that railroad operating expenses show a notable decrease over those of previous years, in which the traffic handled was much lighter. When Louis D Brandels told the roads that they were wasting money they got very indignant-then they seem to have taken the hint.-Chicago Journal.

New York, Feb. 16.-The policies of President Wilson and the Democratic administration toward the international situations arising out of the war and the Mexican disturbances, and, as relating to domestic conditions, toward the tariff, were attacked by former United States Senator Ellhu Root In his address as temporary chairman of the New York state Republican convention, in assembly here.
